

Surveying By Kiosk: Eaton Aerospace Done in 2 Days

Los Angeles -- Eaton Aerospace set up kiosks in a training room so that all employees could complete the annual commute survey online. Only 50% of the company's 300 employees have access to the Internet at their workstations.

"We saved a ton of time with the Web-based survey and were done in just two days. But the real key is that we'll be saving on our compliance this year," reported Compliance Manager Ruth Thomas.

"Last year, we paid about $14,000, and this year we owed about $7,800," she said.

Employees responded well to the kiosk approach. "The kiosks and mandating surveying on company time sends a message that it's important. Plus we had someone there to help them," Thomas added.
